1. A member of the Communist Party of Chile (PCCh) [REDACTED], said that the Party plans to double the number of individuals serving in its self-defense units (grupos de auto defensa). [REDACTED] there are now 800-1,000 individuals in these groups. [REDACTED] Comment: [REDACTED] each local Party committee was instructed to form two 12-man self-defense units and that the goal for Santiago Province was a total of 600 members.)

2. The Party is taking this additional precaution in the aftermath of attacks on PCCh property and buildings. [REDACTED] Comment: The headquarters of the Communist Youth (JJ.CC) and of the leftist Popular Unity (UP) were attacked on 31 March and 1 April. [REDACTED] the increase in the self-defense units was also due to the appearance of a militant anti-Communist organization known as GRACO. [REDACTED] Comment: The organization known as GRACO (Grupo Anticomunista) has been mentioned only in the PCCh-controlled press in the aftermath of the attacks on PCCh buildings. It has attacked the organization as consisting of right-wing militants and has claimed that it is being funded with Argentine assistance. There is no independent confirmation that the GRACO organization exists.)
